

Radioactive Elements

More than six hundred partygoers decked out in post-apocalyptic duds descended upon the East Coast Refinishing warehouse in Pittsfield, Mass., on March 6 for Radioactive Bodega, the annual fundraiser for IS183 Art School of the Berkshires. DJ BFG presided over the expansive dance floor of the cavernous industrial space as revelers imbibed fluorescent-green concoctions courtesy of Berkshire Mountain Distillers, noshed on chocolate-covered Pop Rocks from Chocolate Springs, and moseyed through a veritable bazaar of silent auction prizes. The otherworldly extravaganza roared deep into the night, raising more than $40,000 for the popular art school in Stockbridge, Mass. (Photos by Seth Rogovoy)

▲ Jeff Diamond and Diane Pearlman

▲ Gwen Davis strikes a pose.

▲ Event chair Sandra D. French Laughran and board member John Bridge

▲ Group W member Bill Tobin

▲ (l-r) WTF's Carolann Patterson, Reid White, and Orit Kadosh

▲ The silent auction bodega entrance

▲ Costume designer Arthur Oliver and Bridget Conry

▲ (l-r) Hilton Hollis and Ryan Weightman

▲ Vaiana Cane

▲ Jonathan and Christine Molk

▶ (l-r) Berkshire Living's Amanda Rae Busch and Maisie Deely of Darrow School

▲ Matthew Wexler

▲ Maria Mingalone of the Berkshire Museum

AS SEEN IN

▲ IS183 faculty member Karen Arp-Sandel sports a new grill.

▲ Masked photographer Ogden Gigli

▲ Lita Lundeed Setchfield

▶ Jeremy D. Goodwin of Shakespeare & Company